Donegal homespun is the name of a rather unique woolen tabric, originally made on handlooms by the peasants in County Donegal. The genuine article is detected by the odor of bog peat smoke which clings to it.

The imitation made in Yankee mills is an improvement in looks upon the original, and you smoke it to suit yourself.

The mottled and knotted appearance of the patterns gives them a rather distinguished appearance, eminently successful in men's outing and business suits and in boys' clothes-in the long belted tourist overcoats the effect is stunning.

Some of our people thought we ought to have Donegal overcoats in our regular lengths as well, so we made a few and have them still, in spite of the persuasive eloquence of our salesmen. For the average man who tries on one of these Irish beauties, seldom gets beyond looking at himself in the mirror.

Only the man with a peculiar complexion and a steady nerve will venture to wear such an

CRANK ON PERPETUAL MOTION

OLD MAN CHAPP LIVED ON BREAD AND APPLES THREE YEARS.

Found in Seantily Furnished Room, Sick and Nearly Starved-His Machine Good With Him to Bellevue-Magistrate Crane Cries Over Old Man's Story.

Adolph Chapp, an inventor, 60 years old, was taken from his scantily furnished room at 348 East Fifty-fourth street to ellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon, on the advice of Magistrate Crane, who visited Chapp with a Charity Organization Society worker and found him sick and nearly

When told of the man's eccentric habits and his forty years' work on a perpetual motion machine, Magistrate Crane decided that Chapp's sanity ought to be tested. Dr. Packer of the Bellevue insane ward examined him and decided that he was just a crank on the subject of perpetua motion. He was sent to a medical ward. where the physicians found him suffering from chronic rheumatism.

A small chest containing the machine which Chapp says is a completed perpetual motion machine, was sent to the hospital with him and will accompany him when he is sent to the Home for the Aged and Infirm on Blackwell's Island, after he has been well fed at Bellevue for a few days.

According to Supt. Merwin of the Bureau of Dependent Adults, who heard 'Chapp's story, the man would be rich to-day if he had not been robbed of valuable inventions by supposed friends.

Forty years ago, just before he came here from Austria, Chapp invented a rocking chair equipped with a piece of rubber instead of a spring. That invention, he Mrs. Barbara Kunar, janitress of 348

East Fifty-fourth street, said that Chapp had lived on an apple and two slices of bread for each meal for the three years she had known him.

Magistrate Crane cried when he heard the old man's story and said: "I would be a rich man if I had that poor old fellow's brains."

TROLLEYS CAPTURE COPS.

Nightsticks Suddenly Called In on the Bridge Loops.

Under a new order the Bridge police carry nightsticks in the rush hours, presumably for the benefit of the ruffian who steps on women and children. But the order has been modified so as to exclude the cops on duty at the trolley loops.

About the first thing that happened when they appeared with the long sticks yesterday was that Patrolman Ashauer's nightstick was that Patrolman Ashauer's nightstick strap—the strap is long and loose—was caught by a trolley gate and he trailed ignominiously after the car the length of the loop. The crowd rather enjoyed it, but he didn't. Soon a second victim went trailing across the cement floor. By the time the third man's life had been thus jeoparded, Capt. Gorman called in the nightsticks of the men on the loops.

WINS AFTER 12 YEARS OF LAW. Ex-Judge Nelson Will Now Get $14,000 for $1,000 Advanced by Him.

Ex-Judge Thomas Nelson of 127 Lefferts place, Brooklyn, received notice, yesterday, hat the Court of Appeals had decided in his favor his suit against Edward Hatch, an attorney of Manhattan, to recover $7,000, money advanced, which suit has been running through the courts for more than welve years.

In 1891 ex-Judge Nelson advanced $7,000 to Mr. Hatch to be used in litigation brought by the widow of a Colorado millionaire. About $2,000 was disbursed, it is alleged, and then Hatch called for another thousand. An accounting was asked for, and a referee decided in favor of Mr. Nelson. Subsequently, however, the referee reversed himself and dismissed the complaint. A second referee decided for Mr. Nelson. An appeal was taken and finally the case reached the Court of Appeals. The court is unanimous in its opinion.

In addition to the original sum, the costs run up the amount of the judgment to $14,000. then Hatch called for another thousand.

Murphy, alias Corkey O'Brien, both professional thieves, were held in $1,500 bail each in the Tombs police court, yesterday, on a charge of highway robbery preferred by William Kirnan, an agent for the police signal system at 19 Barclay street.

Kirnan visited the saloon at Fulton and Greenwich streets, last Tuesday night, and picked up an acquaintance with two men. The actions of the men aroused his suspicions and he left the saloon. He had walked but a few blocks when he was set upon by the men, who, after beating him into unconsciousness, took from him $125, a money order for $50, a gold watch and chain and a gold fountain pen.

Kirnan picked the pictures of Osborn and Murphy out of the rogues gallery and Detective Sergeants Burke, O'Connors and Galvin arrested them on Friday night in Theatre alley. Kirnan picked them out of a crowd of prisoners.

It appears that Peters and Russo were under orders to take the 8 o'clock train on Saturday evening for North Beach, and Gilhooly had been ordered to meet Inspector Kane at Jamaica on Sunday afternoon, to go with the inspector on a visit to the seashore resorts.

The reports contains nothing beyond what has been published as to the occurrences of Saturday night, except that Patrolman Byers says in his statement that he knocked Sanders down with his nightstick. Lawyer Alter, however, said that the wounds on Sanders's head were made by the butt ends of the policemen's revolvers. Sanders says so, too.
